"Gentramen: Your Committee on Athletics begs to submit for your consideration and action the following special report on the subject of prizes:

"The practice of offering and presenting prizes of more or less commercial value other than medals, hadges, or emblems, at boxing tournaments, which are des gnated as and are intended to be purely amateur contests, has grown to such an exteat that your committee has not found it practicable to accure a sufficient number of entries to the clubs boxing tournaments without offering what we think are properly termed industments of this character. While no member of your committee has inovising of no behalf of the committee has inovising of an auch prize presented by or on behalf of the committee has inovising of the committee has inovising of an action of the committee has inovising of the prize facilities such conversit, and it is a grave once in whether the giving of such prizes facilities such conversit, and it is a grave once in whether the giving of such prizes, although to-berned and sentioned by long usars, is not in conflict with the true spirit of the amateur rule, which, as we believe cortemplates that the prize in an amateur conte t shall be simply an emblem of the yieldry gained in such contest as distinuished from a payment or reward of commercial value.

"We are also aware that the lime is near at hand when the reorganization of the Central Athletic body, of which our club is a member, will take effect, bringing into force new contitions of competition more stringent than those new existing, including the disqualification of any athlete who shall sell, pleign, er exchange for any other thing any prize won by him in any athletic contest; and we also know that the man agree of real of the contest from any taint of professionalism, which efforts, we believe, are liable to embarras-ment and obtraction by a continuation of the practice by this club of giving prizes of the converted handle of an accomplication and appro which, while outside, the pale of amateurism, would be only semi-professional—to the extent of excluding or expelling from membership any prize fighter; and who while receiving compensation for exhibitions in their own and be one other clube, would not only confine such exhibitions which the restrictions of municipal law, but also within all the humane restrictions of the A. A. Upoxing: rites, as to soft gloves. Ilmited number of rounds, and other limitations which clearly draw the line between a healthful, manly aport and a brutal prize fight.

We are convinced that if such a course were encouraged by our club and others a definite and satisfactory solution of a varing problem in amateur athletics would thereby be reached and a legitimate me us be made available to amateur clubs and associations of presenting instructive, entertaining, and humane exhibitions in a branch of athletics for the encouragement of which many athletic clubs employ professional instructors.

"In submitting this report we expressly disclaim any intention of criticising the course of any other club or of any athlete who has received or contested for orizes of the character which we have designated as commercial; for the fault—if such there be—in the existing state of affairs, we consider no other club more responsible than our own. Indeed, while we would be glad to see other olube pursue the course which we recommend to ours for immediate adontion, we would earnestly protest against any attempt to prevent the giving of exhibitions or tournaments already arranged for by other clubs or associations with due sanction by the central body, and which are airsedy obligated to give such prizes of considerable commercial value in boxing tournaments and exhibitions, while restricting the prizes to club medals in all field and track events is due, we think to the circumstance that the latter have always been free of members, who have left that the club abould on that account be specially liberal in the mitter of prizes. Stirring Up Pool Sellers in Chicago.

CRICAGO, Feb. 10.—There is a State law which forbide the seiling of pools on races outside of the enclosure of the race tracks on which they occur. Last summer Ed Corrigan proprieter of the West Ride track, made war on the down town pool sellers under this law, and secured a large number of indictments arainst them.
They have been pending ever since, but to day they were entiad up by the State's Attorney and discussed.
Most of the pool sellers had never less recred heretofore to even the formality of giving helt, as the constables who were sent out with the warrants for their arrived made return that the indicted men could not be formal.

ISCHIGORIN REPLIES TO STRIKITES LAST MOTES.

The Russian Prays as It was Expected be Would in the Evans Gambit, but his Move in the Other Same was a Surprise -There are Now Some Very Pretty and Techigorin's twentieth moves in the two Techigorin's twentieth moves in the two games of the cable chees match which he is contesting with W. Steinitz of New York were received here from St. Petersburg yesterday. In the Evans Gambit the Bussian master has made a move which was generally anticipated, and which Steinitz himself says is undoubtedly the best which Technoria had at his disposal. The move is B-B 4, threatening B x Kt. to be followed by B x Q B P, and, in case black then replies B x B, white preponds with Q x R, and so on. Of course.

threatening B x Kt, to be followed by B x Q B P, and in case black then replies B x B, white responds with Q x R, and so on. Of course, Techigorin could safely leave the K P en prise, because if Steinitz were to take this pawn with the kt, then Techigorin's protable reply would be 21. Kt x B R x Kt; 29. Q x Kt P threatening rock and knight. Tsebigorin's prostition may be fairly considered to be, if snything, slightly better, and his chances of a win somewhat improved.

His move in the two knight. defence—Q x P—unlike that in the Evans, is one which was hardly expected in New York chees circles. In fact the general opinion seemed to be that Tsehigorin would not take the pawn, but would move B—K B 4, with the object of protecting the pawn on K S, as well as adding material strength to his position. Steinitz object in sarr ficing the pawn is not yet apparent, and at first sight a likely move for him to make how is P—Q II 3, threatening or driving back the bishop. Some pretty variations might follow his move, although the chances that Steinitz will win the game do not appear to be endangered by this somewhat unexpected movement on the part of his opponent. The following variation is one which suggests tiself: 21. P—Q R 3, B x Kt on fretreating the bishop is not good); 22. B x B, Q—B 4! (ii) 22. Q—Q kt 3; 23. P—Kt 4, Q—R Kt 4; 24. Q x P, R—B 4; 25. Q—B 8. Now if black wants to in-unker in a Hittle bit of brilliance he might sacrifice the knight on R 4 by playing attack. However, Steinitz will have foreseen all these brilliant fireworks. Bad will be prepared to meet them. Another interesting variation would arise out of 21, B—Q sq. THE GAMES,
